NO TRUST DECISION

(Copyright, 1910, By New York Evening Post Company.)

New York, April 13.—The sharp recovery on the stock exchange today represented, perhaps a change of mood rather than a change of conditions. In the general financial situation, matters stand precisely where they stood a week ago.

The money market, the gold exports, and the crop situation remain as they were at that time. Only in the single incident of the postponed decision under the anti-trust law can it be said that any new factor has appeared upon the scene. Of that it may be granted that if the community was plunged into pessimism because of a possible verdict on each successive "next Monday" or even if it had imagined that this was the reason for its pessimism then the skies certainly have been brightened.

What actual force is to be allowed to such an argument, each reader must judge for himself.

It will be more to the purpose perhaps to consider whether the present more cheerful frame of mind may not be a result of looking more rationally at other considerations. Both efforts are not popular, but they are better than such disturbance of the international money market as a higher Bank of England rate would cause.

COMMISSIONERS MEET

The county commissioners at their meeting Wednesday awarded a contract to Peter Schissler for building a small bridge in Canton township, the price to be $199.80.

The board of real estate appraisers of Massillon asked for and were granted an additional sum of $2,750 with which to complete their work.

A new estimate by the county surveyor for grading the county infirmary grounds was presented and filed and bids will again be advertised for in hopes that a contract for the work may be awarded. May 13 was set for opening the bids.
